Torah For Tycoons

BUSINESS AND PERSONAL ETHICS FOR CONTEMPORARY JEWS

Show Them Who's Boss

Dealing with Unethical Situations in the Workplace

Presenters:

Dr. Fredric Sonstein, MD, Neurosurgeon, Brain and Spine Injury Specialists
Rabbi Mordechai Fleisher, Senior Educator, Denver Community Kollel

Bosses get a bad rap in American culture. A 2016 poll found that 32% of employees defined their boss as terrible, while only 15% said they have an excellent boss. Bosses may be the stuff of frustration, jokes and armchair psychologists, but sometimes a difficult boss can go to a whole new level when the employee is asked to engage in or be party to unethical or illegal behavior. Suddenly, one is faced with an excruciating decision: Do I risk, or even lose, my job by refusing, or do I cooperate and protect my livelihood? The questions that arise in these situations can be complex and life-changing, and there aren't easy answers. The Torah gives us guidance on how to deal with every circumstance that we encounter, and this is no different. Join Dr. Fredric Sonstein, MD and Rabbi Mordechai Fleisher, Senior Educator for the Denver Community Kollel, as they work through the nuances of this intricate subject.

When: Wednesday, December 6, 2017 12-1:15 pm
Where: East Side Kosher Deli, 499 S. Elm St.
RSVP: 303-820-2855 or info@denverkollel.org
Cost: $25

For Men and Women

Denver KOLLEL

Torah for Tycoons is made possible through a generous grant from the Harry H. Beren Trust