Whose Right & Who's Right? The Debate over Termination of Pregnancy

Presenters:

J. Joshua Kopelman, MD, FACOG, FACS

Rabbi Mordechai Fleisher, Senior Educator, Denver Community Kollel

It's been raging for decades, and it shows no signs of abating. The abortion debate sees passionate, sometimes violent, proponents on both sides of the aisle fighting for their right; right to life vs. right to choose. The famed Supreme Court decision of 1973 may have turned the law in a very different direction, but nary a week goes by without something coming up in the news cycle.

What does the Torah have to say about this emotional, complicated question? Is it ever permitted to end a pregnancy? What role do the needs and wants of the would-be mother play? And how is one to deal with the halacha in a modern, challenging world? Join J. Joshua Kopelman, MD, FACOG, FACS and Rabbi Mordechai Fleisher, Senior Educator for the Denver Community Kollel, as they wade into this row and increase your knowledge of one of the most controversial subjects of our time.
